NHAI to install landslip detection system on Gap Road

The National Highways Authority of India is planning to introduce a cost-effective landslip detection system on the Gap Road stretch of the Kochi-Dhanushkodi National Highway in Munnar. NHAI Assistant Executive Engineer Rex Felix told The Hindu that the system has been developed by the Indian Institute of Technology, Mandi, the Indian Army, and the Defence Research and Development Organisation.

Lokesh files defamation case against YSRCP leaders

TDP general secretary Nara Lokesh filed his declaration before Mangalagiri Magistrate court on Friday. He filed a defamation case against YSR Congress Party (YSRCP) MLC Pothula Sunitha and AP digital board director G. Devender Reddy. Later, speaking to reporters, Mr. Lokesh said he would not spare anyone who resorted to fake propaganda against him or his family.

Top court rejects ED appeal in case involving Jagan's wife

ED had attached assets of Bharathi Reddy in a money laundering case. Supreme Court concurs with the Telangana HC view that the property taken over was not proceeds of the alleged crime

Krishnadas Rajagopal
NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday declined to entertain an appeal by the Enforcement Directorate against a Telangana High Court decision allowing Y.S. Bharathi Reddy, wife of Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy, to substitute the property attached by the central agency in a money laundering case with fixed deposits.

A Bench of Justices A.S. Oka and Sanjay Karol asked whether the immovable property attached by the agency was the proceeds of the alleged crime.

Additional Solicitor General S.V. Raju, for the ED, said they were not, but amounted to the "equivalent value".

Senior advocate Niranjan Reddy and advocate Liz Mathew appeared for Ms. Reddy.

Y.S. Bharathi Reddy

They referred to several portions of the High Court order, which had concluded that the property attached was not the actual proceeds of the alleged crime.

The property was attached by the ED under money laundering charges in a corruption case involving Bharathi Cement.

Refusing to intervene in the High Court order, the top court noted that "the property attached was not the actual one that was acquired from the proceeds of the crime. This finding is not disputed by the petitioner (ED). Moreover, it is not the case of the petitioner that the value of the attached property mentioned in the order [of the Telangana High Court] is incorrect. In view of this factual position, we decline to entertain the Special Leave Petition," the Bench recorded in the order.

According to the ED's SLP, the High Court, in its order on November 28 last year, "wrongly directed the release of the confirmed attached immovable properties pertaining to the respondent (Ms. Reddy) in lieu of fixed deposit for a sum of ₹1,36,91,285."

The petition said it was "copiously aggrieved" by the order, which had also allowed Ms. Reddy's offer to give a fixed deposit of ₹6,13,89,370 in lieu of 61,38,937 equity shares of ₹10 each belonging to M/s Sandur Power Company Pvt. Ltd.

The petition had contended that the High Court order, despite displaying a lack of rationale, was also "completely detrimental" to the spirit and object of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002.

"The High Court failed to consider the stand of the department that no provision exists in the 2002 Act, which speaks about the substitution of confirmed attached properties with fixed deposit," the ED petition had argued.

Setback to arrested TN Minister in High Court

Mohamed Imranullah S.
CHENNAI

The arrested Tamil Nadu Minister, V. Senthilbalaji, suffered a major setback in the Madras High Court on Friday, with Justice C.V. Karthikeyan, the third judge named by Chief Justice S.V. Gangapurwala following a split verdict by a Division Bench on July 4, holding that a habeas corpus petition filed by his wife Megala is not maintainable.

He also held that the Directorate of Enforcement (ED) can subject to custodial interrogation any person accused in a case booked under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), 2002, and the Minister can be taken into custody even after the expiry of 15 days from his arrest on June 14.

After answering all three questions framed by him, on the points of differences between the two judges of the Division Bench, the third judge directed the High Court Registry to list the matter again before the same Bench, with the consent of the Chief Justice, for a formal closure of the case by taking the majority view into consideration.

Though Additional Solicitor-General A.R.L. Sundaresan, representing the ED, said there might not be any necessity to send the case back to the Division Bench, Justice Karthikeyan stressed that it would have to go not only for a formal closure but also for deciding the day from which the ED would be entitled to take the Minister into custody. He said though Justice J. Nisha Banu had allowed the petition and declared the Minister's detention illegal, Justice D. Bharatha Chakravarthy had ruled otherwise and ordered that the Minister remain in a private hospital only for a maximum of 10 days from July 4 and he be taken for interrogation after being shifted to the prison hospital.

Now, after aligning with the decision of Justice Chakravarthy on the questions of maintainability of the petition, the power of the ED to subject the accused to custodial interrogation as well as its right to interrogate even beyond 15 days of arrest, Justice Karthikeyan said the day from which such interrogation could begin would have to be decided only by the Division Bench. "I would align with the views of Justice Bharatha Chakravarthy, but leave it to the wisdom of the Division Bench to determine the first date of such custody. That is the competent Bench," the judge said, dictating orders in open court. The dictation began at 1.10 p.m. immediately after completion of arguments and ended at 4.10 p.m., with the judge not taking lunch break.

Giving reasons for his conclusions, the judge said a habeas corpus petition challenging detention would be maintainable only in exceptional circumstances. "But this case does not attract any exceptional circumstance and consequently, since an order of remand had been passed by a court of competent jurisdiction, the relief sought in the habeas corpus petition cannot be granted."

On the petitioner's claim that her husband was kept in the dark on the grounds of his arrest at 1.39 a.m. on June 14, the judge said the ED's proceedings were not something that happened out of the blue but were the result of a money laundering case registered in 2021 on the basis of a 2014-15 cash-for-jobs scam case. He pointed out the arrest had been carried out after an entire day of search and seizure proceedings.

Pawan Kalyan will never be able to enter Assembly: Ambati

The Hindu Bureau
VIJAYAWADA

Water Resources Minister Ambati Rambabu has said that Jana Sena Party (JSP) president Pawan Kalyan will not be able to enter the Legislative Assembly in his lifetime, and he is not fit for politics given his temperament.

Addressing the media at the YSRCP office at Tadepalli, near here on Friday, Mr. Rambabu said, "Many people, including actor Chiranjeevi, have launched their political outfits, but only a few leaders such as Chief Minister Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy are successful."

"It involves blood, sweat and tears. Mr. Pawan Kalyan displays love, anger and all sorts of emotions one after the other. He does not stick to his remarks and observations. These are not good traits of a politician," the Minister said.

Mr. Pawan Kalyan was touring the Godavari districts with the sole objective of consolidating the Kapu vote bank, the Minister said.

Bail granted in forgery case

The Hindu Bureau
KOCHI

The Kerala High Court on Friday granted bail to Nikhil Thomas in a case relating to forging his degree certificate to obtain admission for M.Com at MSM College.

The prosecution charge was that that he had forged a document and styled it as the original degree certificate issued by Kalinga University, Odisha, and submitted it before the college for the admission to the course. He had also produced a forged transfer certificate and migration certificate from Kalinga University. The prosecution submitted that his release on bail would hamper the ongoing investigation. Passing the order, the court observed that the accused was in custody since June 24. It was also evident that the necessary documents were also recovered.

M.T. Vasudevan Nair, who carved a niche in literature and cinema, turns 90 today

P.K. Ajith Kumar
KOZHIKODE

For a language that is relatively young, Malayalam has produced some of India's greatest literature. Some of India's greatest films too have been made in Malayalam. When we think of those timeless works in literature and cinema, one will find a name associated with many of them. A name that has just two letters: MT.

M.T. Vasudevan Nair, who wrote some of the finest pieces of fiction in Malayalam and who revolutionised the art of screenplay in the language, turns 90 on Saturday.

Nobody has perhaps straddled the twin worlds of literature and cinema the way he has, and for so long. His latest work, an anthology of films adapted from his short stories, is set to be streamed soon.

He has also completed the script of Randamoozham, an adaptation of his novel that brought a fresh perspective to Mahabharata.

Its filming did not begin and there were legal tangles, which were eventually resolved. Randamoozham's screen version should be worth the wait.

The novel, in which we revisit the epic from Bheema's point of view, remains a best-seller. MT had once told The Hindu that of all his works, it was Randamoozham that had reached out to most readers outside Malayalam.

"Mahabharata is always relevant," he had said. "The meaninglessness of war has made man think always. What do you gain from a war, besides creating widows?"

Randamoozham is undoubtedly a significant novel, one of the best in Indian literature. MT, however, had already written several great novels, such as Asuravithu, Kaalam, Manju and Naalukettu. If Manju bowled the readers over with its sheer lyrical beauty, Asuravithu haunted them with the brilliant portrayal of the protagonist Govindankutty and society he lived in.

M.T. Vasudevan Nair

It has not just been in novels that MT has created strong characters. He has penned immortal characters for the screen, too. Chanthu (Oru Vadakkan Veeragatha), Unniamaya (Parinayam), Indira (Panchagni), Sathyanathan (Sadayam), Dr. Haridas (Amrutham Gamaya) are just some of them.

Malayalam cinema has been fortunate that MT spent so much of his time to write screenplays. Until he was persuaded to write the script of Murappennu (1965) by producer Shobhana Parameswaran Nair, he had no intention to work in cinema as he was perfectly content being an author. Fortunately for Malayalam cinema, MT continued to write screenplays even as he pursued his literary career. He has also enacted the role of a literary magazine editor with great skills, though that facet of his life has not been celebrated as much.
