Dear Sir,

Sub: Request for clarification under RTI Act.

One of my clients have submitted application to RERA authorities for registration of his proposed residential project under RERA as a developer/builder in the month of November 2018 . The application has been accepted by the RERA authorities and my client has paid the fee but till today my client have not received registration certificate from RERA Authorities.

Nearly 4 months are completed still RERA authorities are repeatedly raising queries asking my client to submit STP drawing duly certified by the Environmental Engineer.

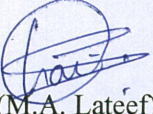

As per RERA Act of Telangana there is no such rule that the developer/builder has to submit STP drawing duly certified by the Environment Engineer.

Is there any such rule or any G.O stating that developer/builder has to submit STP drawing duly certified by the Environment Engineer at the time of submission of application for registration under RERA.

If any such rule is there please provide me a copy of the same. The necessary xerox charges will be paid.

Enclosed herewith Rs. 10/- postal order towards fee.

Thank you
Yours sincerely,

(M.A. Lateef)
